CALL FOR APPLICATIONS

DIALOGGERS.EU – GREEK-GERMAN JOURNALIST WORKSHOP EU 2016: PERSPECTIVES FOR A PUZZLED EU

BRUSSELS | 13 – 19 NOVEMBER 2016

Find the application form here.

The Konrad-Adenauer-Stiftung Greece Office organizes its 6th Greek-German Journalist Workshop. The project will take place in Brussels. The call is open to Greek young journalists or journalism students, up to the age of 33.

WHAT IS IT ABOUT?

Since October 2012 KAS Athens has organized 5 Greek-German Media Workshops in Athens, Berlin and Brussels. Greek and German journalists work together in team of 2 on topics of common concern, serving the European public interest. This time KAS Athens calls young Greek journalists to apply for the workshop in Brussels at a time of test for EU. We will deal with current issues, such as Europe's Integration after the Brexit vote, the continuous financial crisis in the South, security concerns and an ever growing migration flow.

During the workshop we use all methods of powerful storytelling: written, multimedia, video, slideshow. Assistance for video storytelling will be provided. Journalists are expected to work in binational teams on the same topic, producing two different articles, one Greek and one German. A Greek and a German participant will share a room with separate beds.

WHO CAN APPLY?

Journalists who participated in previous dialoggers workshops as well as other young Greek journalists and journalism students with good command of English are invited to apply.

HOW CAN I APPLY?

Please send us your application to info.athen@kas.de by October 7th 2016. Your motivation letter should include an explanation why you want to participate at the seminar (eg. a keen interest on a particular European issue, a personal experience over Greek- German cooperation, or interest in media relations).
